

Now, Krishna animated

FOR the first time in the history of Hindi cinema, the epic life story of Lord Krishna is being turned into a full-fledged animated feature film by a Muslim fan of the Hindu God.

The 95-minute film, scripted and directed by Aman Khan, is scheduled to be released in December.

Khan, who has earlier made animated versions of Akbar and Birbal and Vikram-Betal, says that the story of Lord Krishna is so inspiring that people of every religion would be able to relate to it.

"The idea came from the success of our other animated videos. Lord Krishna's is a simple, touching story. It captures his early life in Gokul and then Vrindavan, where Yashoda and Nand raised him, and his eventual victory over the evil Kansa. We obviously can't tamper with the storyline, but it will surely be told in an interesting manner," assures Khan.
